The Democratic Position.

The Bristol News says that the regular emocrats (or Funders, as it prefers to exitem) a have predetermined that Virginia all go Republican rather than any portion te shall be cast by Readjusters, igh it be thus cast as a unit for the eratic nominees." We must express surprise that such a statement should en made by Mr. FowLER. The ers put the names of A. L. PRIDEMORE, JAMES Y. MENIPER, and JAMES S. REDD apon their electoral ticket because they re Readjusters. They appointed several temen as delegates to the Cincinnsti envention because they were Readjusters. They invited all Readjusters to participate in the county meetings and aid in selecting delegates to the State Convention The calculations are speculations : of May 19th. They welcomed with open ms all the Readjusters who appeared in that Convention. In that Convention Mr. JAMES BARBOUR made a speech in which, after saying that he could not understand ow he could advance the cause of read justment by refusing to vote for the Democratic sominee for President, he plainly intimated that though he should support that nominee this year, yet next year he would be as ready as ever to cross swords on the delt question with those of the gentlemen around him who were Debt-Payers. And yet this last utterance was received by that bigoted" Funder Convention with much applause, and Mr. BARROUR was afterwards cted a delegate to the Democratic Nation al Convention. In view of these facts. upon what does Mr. FowLER base the statement quoted above ? Will be not cor-

Even now the Funders ask no Readjuster to recant his views on the debt question. They ask no Readjuster to advocate the McCulloca bill or to oppose the Riddle-BERGER bill. They do not raise such questions at all. They have nominated eleven gentlemen as candidates for electors, among whom are several gentlemen as well known to have been Readjusters last year as the editor of the News himself. These gentlemen, if elected, will cast the vote of Virginia for HANCOCK and ENGLISH. They will have no other duty whatever to perform as such electors. The Funder who votes for the Readjuster electors will know that in so doing he does not thereby endorse the views of those electors on the debt question. So also the Readjuster who votes for the Funder electors will know that he does not thereby endorse the views of these electors on the debt question. Again: A number of the gentlemen appointed by the Democratic party to canvass the State are Readjusters. No discrimination against Readjusters has ever been practiced in making these appointments. Readjusters and Debt-Payers are appointed to do this duty alone; and neither the former nor the latter are questioned as to their views on other subjects. Come, friend FowLER, "fall in.? Your place is vacant. Fill it this year, and you will have a much stronger hold upon the confidence of the masses than you can secure by trying to divide the Democratic party upon a question which that party bas no desire to see or hear discussed before the year 1881. If you can go before your people next year and tell them that you stood by the national Democratic party in 1880. you will be able to claim to be recognized then as a true Democrat. But if you perall that you can to give the vote of Virginia to GARFIELD, upon what plea will you next year be able to justify

The Washington Republican has now stated our remarks in regard to repudiation in our own words; and of course we have no further complaint to make against it on the score of unfairness. But we would like for that journal to recollect that no question of direct repudiation has ever been submitted to the people of Virginia. They are told that it is only a question be tween honest readjustment and impossible attempts to pay. We do not by any means hold that a majority of the voters of this State would consciously vote for repudia-

To submit a direct question of payment or non-payment to the decision of the voters of the Union is a very different thing from voting for repudiation by the assistance of intermediarles. Submit to the northern voters the question of repudiating the national debt, and let either party come out in favor of repudiation, and a majority of the northern people would vote in the affirmative-not because they are in favor of repudiation, but because the very act on the part of Congress of submitting the question to them would satisfy them that they had as good a right to vote "Aye" as "No," and that they could thus

ROCKINGHAM COUNTY .- The Register says that on Tuesday last a vote was taken by the grand jurors in attendance on the County Court. It stood: 13 for the regular Democratic electoral ticket; 1 for the Ma-HONE electoral ticket; and 2 were unde clded. Every section of the county was represented, and a majority of the jurors were Readjusters. The same paper further

"The solid, independent farmers of Rockingham, who have been life-long Democrats, were in Harrisonburg in great numbers on Monday last. We have found them nearly all in their expressions strong in denunciation of the third electoral ticket, and they fully understand its character."

RICHMOND, July 23, 1880.

Editors Dispatch: I votice a communication in your paper of this morning claiming that Winston is entitled to all 14 delegates from Louisa, because he baving received 420 votes makes 30 votes to a delegate, and 14 times 30 making 420, therefore Winston is entitled to all 14 delegates. The mathematics of the writer of the communication is much at fault. The whole vote cast in Louisa is 449. Winston receiving 420 and Wise 29. Divide 449 by 14, and you will and the only way, to give the remaining delegate to the person having the largest fraction of votes after the apportionment of delegates is first made according to the vote received by each candidale.

In Richmond city 36 (and a fraction) votes is the number that secures a delegate in the original apportionment, but Clopton, receiving only 22 votes, was rightfully given a delegate because he had the largest fraction of votes to secure the remaining delegate after the first apportionment had been gate after the first apportionment had been made.

A Personal Explanation.

LOUISA COURTHOUSE, VA., July 23, 1880. Editors Dispatch: The article which appeared in your columns of the 22d instant, giving the vote of Louisa in the recent primary election and containing a calculation to show that Captain George D. Wise is entitled to a delegate from the county. has been imputed to me, for the very ob-vious reason that I am your regular correndent at this point. I therefore claim that it is due me to be allowed to make a statement disclaiming the authorship of the said article.

Whoever is the author of the "calculition" referred to is egregiously mistaken. The law or rule adopted by the proper authorities relative to the point in question reads thus: " The number of delegates to which each city and county is enitled shall be equitably apportioned among the candidates according to the number of votes received by each candidate in each city and county, giving the odd delegate or delegates, if any after such apportion-ment, to the candidate or candidates having the highest fraction of votes over and above the number necessary to secure a delegate." The whole number of votes cast in Louisa being 449, the basis of distribution is found to be 32 1-14. vote not approximating 32 1-14 (it being 29), he is not entitled to a delegate, as a matter of course. The fraction rule does not apply unless a candidate receives sufficient votes to entitle him to a delegate on the basis of distribution in apportionment and a fraction over. To illustrate, we will suppose that the vote was, as it is, 449, but that Winston received 400 and Wise 49. The basis of distribution would be 32 1-14. Now, 321-14 into 400 gives Winston's vote-to wit., 12 and 211-449. Wise's vote (49) being divided by 321-14, gives him 1 and 237-449. The fraction rule would be applicable because Wise would have received his one delegate on the bisis of apportionment and had still a fraction over, and his fraction being greater than Winston's (237-449 to 211-449) would entitle him to the second delegate.
The real case in question is quite different, as already seen. It is very obvious that Captain Winston is entitled to the full delegation from Louisa, and the county supergation from Louisa, intendent has so decided. W. M. Bickers. Very respectfully, W. M. BICKERS.

[Mr. Bickers sent to this paper several days ago a letter claiming all the Louisa delegates for Mr. Winston, but the newseditor, supposing that he was mistaken in his calculation, did not publish that letter.]

And on placing of the said electoral ticket in the field, we, the representatives and vo-ters of both parties, pledge it our hearty and unanimous support. We further request that we have no pub-lic speaking at the court-house on that day, and that the county treasurer and county clerk be present and register the names of all voters who favor this action, in order that said proceedings, with the names of the signers attached, may be published as an expression of the sentiments of the people

There are signs of a growing unpleasant ess between the President and the S ary of the Treasury concerning the conous to accord General Garfield all p support, and doesn't care particularly to allow any civil-service-reform notions to stand in the way of success, while Secretary Sherman is not at all enthusiastic. Since he Secretary has been having his summer racation on a revenue cutter, the President has ordered sent forward some commissions that Mr. Sherman directed should be held till be returned, and there is plenty of trouble promised. Some difficulty now threatwhere they have got a collector whom the President is understood to be willing to remove in consideration of Conkling's sup-port for Garfield, but be meets with Sherman's objection. Perhaps if this Adminis-tration wants to be unauimous in behalf of Garfield, Secretary Sherman will have to be removed.

HANCOCK VISITS TILDEN .- New York, July 22.-Even the rain-storm did not prevent many from calling to-day on General Hancock at Governor's Island. Among the visitors were three editors—David Gray, of the Buffalo Courier; M. H. Northrup, of the Stracuse Courier; and C. P. Bacon, of the Elmira Gazette. The General was ex-tremely courteous, but resisted steadfastly any approaches toward a professional interview. Among the other visitors were ex-Governor Walker, of Virginia; General Roger A. Pryor; Colonel W. W. Warden, of Washington, D. C.; A. B. Mullett, of New York post-office memory; Robert of Pennsylvania, brother of Randall, Speaker Randall, and ex-State Senator James F. Starbuck. Two members of the Democratic State Committee-General Lester B. Faulkner (chairman) and P. A. Maxwell-were also among the visitors. In the afternoon, while the storm was at its height, the General left the island, accompanied by his son, Russell Hancock, to be absent for the night, which was spent with Mr. Tilden at the ex-Governor's summer residence, Greystone, near Yonkers.
